English horizontal text at the top of the page introduces the document. This paragraph runs left to right as usual.

The block on the right of this row is vertical Japanese with upright glyphs. A mixed page like this is common in bilingual magazines and academic layouts. The reading flow visits the horizontal column first, then the vertical one.

桜の花は春の象徴である。毎年多くの人々が公園や川沿いに集まり花見を楽しむ。桜前線は南から北へ移る。